Equity Accounts

Definition: Cumulatively, these accounts represent the difference between the assets and liabilities of the Department. Individually, each account represents a summary of unique activities which affect equity. In addition, the accounts are used to record the revenues and collections credited to the U.S. Department of Treasury.

Definition: This account includes the cost of materials, equipment, services, and other items transferred to other DOE contractors, or field offices. Detail accounts in this group are maintained by the issuing and receiving organizations only (field office or contractor, as applicable). Accounts (8112) maintained by the receiving organization are reciprocal to the accounts maintained by the issuing organization and should be in agreement with them at the end of each month. In other words, they must balance to zero by organization and by fund type of transfer. The Office of Financial Control and Reporting provides a monthly feedback of cumulative transactions in summary form to each field office for review and, where applicable, corrective action. Any corrections, including out-of-balance problems, are to be resolved prior to month-end closing. The accounts are eliminated in the preparation of consolidated statements. At the end of the year, the accounts, which normally have credit balances, are closed to Account 8151, DOE Equity (or to Account 8125, Investment with Integrated Contractors). At fiscal year-end, the closing of amounts recorded by contractors in this account are preparation of consolidated statements. At the end of the year, the accounts, which normally have credit balances, are closed to Account 8151, DOE Equity (or to Account 8125, Investment with Integrated Contractors). At fiscal year-end, the closing of amounts recorded by contractors in this account are accomplished by the Office of Financial Control and Reporting with an offset of Account 8125. At this time, the reciprocal investment account entry in this same amount is established by the Office of Financial Control and Reporting in the field office accounts with the offset to Account 8151. Corresponding entries are to be made at the contractor and field office levels, but these entries are to be limited to local use only and are not to be included in the field office FIS submissions to Headquarters.

Definition: This account includes the cost of materials, equipment, services, and other items transferred from other DOE contractors, or field offices. Detail accounts in this group are maintained by the issuing and receiving organizations only (field office or contractor, as applicable). Accounts (8111) maintained by the receiving organization are reciprocal to the accounts maintained by the issuing organization and should be in agreement with them at the end of each month. In other words, they must balance to zero by organization and by fund type of transfer. The Office of Financial Control and Reporting will provide a monthly feedback of cumulative transactions in summary form to each field office for review and, where applicable, corrective action. Any corrections necessary to product transfers must be resolved with the data submission of the following month. Transfers, other than product, are edited and corrected if necessary, during the monthly editing process prior to FIS update. The accounts are eliminated in the preparation of consolidated statements. At the end of the year, the accounts, which normally have credit balances, are closed to Account 8151, DOE Equity (or to Account 8125, Investment with Integrated Contractors). Definition: This account is to be used for transfers of items between contract identification codes or site codes within the same reporting organization. Entries in the account must net to zero within each fund type, financial plan code, and reporting unit. At year-end, the account is closed in contractors' accounts to Account 8125, Investment with Integrated Contractors, and by the field offices to Account 8151, DOE Equity. When utilized by contractors involved in Uranium Supply and Enrichment Activities (USEA), care should be taken at report dates to distribute reciprocal entries to Account 8123, Current Year Payments with Integrated Contractors, as appropriate, in order that the reciprocating balances remaining in Account 8115 accounts of the same reporting unit will represent actual transfers of items, such as equipment, between USEA and non-USEA functions of the same organization.

Definition: Through the use of budget and reporting classifications, this account summarizes operating costs and revenues. All programs costs, other costs, other income, extraordinary charges and credits, and adjustments applicable to prior years are included in this account. The balance, the net cost of operation, is closed to account 8151, DOE Equity, at the end of the year (or to account 8125, Investment with Integrated Contractors, by contractor).

Restrictions on Use:

Table of Related Codes:

- Summary Classification Code = 60, 63, 64, 6C

1/ B&R ZN4030000 was established in FY 1999 to record the value of oil transferred from the Department of the Interior. This oil was capitalized as part of the Strategic Petroleum Reserves, and we therefore treated as a transfer-in rather than an imputed cost.

2/ Elimination entries are needed each year to properly account for funds transferred from appropriation 89X0242 (fund type TE) to the D&D Fund (89X5231 - fund type 5U).

3/ Elimination entries are generated for payments received by the Isotope Production and Distribution Fund from DOE appropriations.
